

K. TransforMED's Delta-Exchange Teams with Group Practice Forum to Present Free Webinar Series on Diabetes Population Management

TransforMED, a national leader in patient-centered medical home transformation, and Group Practice Forum (GPF), an independent network of physician group experts and education professionals, announced a partnership to deliver patient-centric clinical education to primary care medical practices. Beginning in June, TransforMED and GPF will launch a three-part webinar series titled "The Patient Journey: Aiming for Excellence in Diabetes Care." The 60-to 90-minute, live and interactive webinars will be hosted on TransforMED's professional online learning community for primary care, Delta-Exchange. The series is free of charge to members and non-members of Delta-Exchange, however, advance registration is required.

The webinar series will be led by Len Fromer, M.D., FAAFP, Assistant Clinical Professor of Family Medicine at University of California at Los Angeles School of Medicine. Dr. Fromer also serves as Executive Medical Director of GPF. The three-part series on diabetes is designed to provide primary care physicians with simple solutions that can be incorporated into their practices immediately to improve patient care. Future webinars developed through this partnership will explore additional areas of chronic disease management for primary care group practices.

Dates and times for the "The Patient Journey: Aiming for Excellence in Diabetes Care" webinars are as follows:

- The Patient Experience - 12-1 p.m. CDT, Wednesday, July 21

Participants will learn tips and techniques for motivating and empowering patients with diabetes to take better control of their health.

- Transitions in Care - 12-1 p.m. CDT, Wednesday, Sept. 8

Primary care physicians and their patients face many challenges when navigating diabetes care from the emergency department to the office setting. Participants will learn strategies to improve patients' transitions across settings.

The webinars are free of charge and open to all who wish to attend. To register, click here.
