Effective medical treatments don’t just happen—they are the result of research, data collection, and physician experience. Loss prevention recommendations are developed in much the same way. Closed malpractice cases provide a treasure trove of valuable insights into professional practice habits and techniques that can enhance patient safety and win or lose lawsuits.

This seminar, drawing from the lessons of closed malpractice claims, will assist physicians in identifying liability issues and corresponding loss prevention techniques. By analyzing the success of these techniques, physicians can then apply these “lessons learned” to their own practices to enhance patient safety and reduce liability risk.

Learning Objectives
Participants in this seminar will better enable participants to:
- Examine issues and trends from closed malpractice claims involving one or more specialties;
- Identify risks encountered during the course of managing claims; and
- Develop and implement loss prevention strategies designed to enhance patient safety and decrease liability risk.
